Consultant Solicitor vacancies (7+ years PQE)

Fantastic opportunity for senior solicitors looking for challenging work, earning profit share whilst working from home. DR Solicitors is currently looking for consultant solicitors with deep experience in any of the following disciplines:

- commercial & regulatory
- commercial property
- dispute resolution
- employment

About the roles

Our clients are NHS and private sector healthcare providers, principally GPs, dentists and hospital consultants. We win the work and our consultant solicitors deliver it whilst earning profit share. We have always been a remote working firm so are completely set up for this way of working, but we do require that you have sufficient professional experience to manage your own files. Relevant sector experience would be an advantage but is not a prerequisite since our unique depth of healthcare knowledge enables us to rapidly train new colleagues in the relevant regulations. Much greater emphasis is placed upon excellent professional and academic credentials. You will often be working alongside your colleagues to ensure the (usually complex) needs of our clients are met.

About you

You will demonstrate a strong client service ethos and have outstanding interpersonal and communication skills. You will manage your own case load independently, and be confident in managing your own time/budget costs as your matters progress. You can demonstrate a track record of successful delivery, be commercially minded and will probably have experience from a top tier law firm. You will be looking for a new challenge in a smaller firm which can offer unique opportunities for work/life balance and career development, and where you can rapidly gain industry recognition for your expertise.

About DR Solicitors

We are a niche, very highly regarded and award winning firm, recognised for our deep industry expertise. We work on some of the most high profile matters in healthcare, and regularly find our clients and their matters in the news. Our unique ways of working attracts high calibre solicitors who want to deliver on challenging and complex work whilst retaining some control over the hours they choose to work. We have high expectations of all our colleagues and aim to support this by our open, supportive and friendly culture.

Remuneration

We offer a profit share of your personal billings. Unlike other firms we have no expectation that you will bring your own clients.
